

LEONA BERLIN

German singer and producer LEONA BERLIN offers an atmospherically dense, Hip Hop influenced Alternative Soul.

After collaborating with internationally known musicians such as Ray Angry (The Roots), Casey Benjamin and Burniss Earl Travis (Robert Glasper Experiment) for her debut album („Leona Berlin“, Warner Music 2018), she is currently working on her second album. Four singles have already been released. Her latest single is “Wrong Lane”, which features Hip Hop icon Snoop Dogg.

“My top priority is to be authentic without having to fit in a box. I would like to give an example of how authenticity is needed and demanded, especially in today's media superficiality.“ She writes and produces her songs herself, inspired and influenced by her greatest role models as well as close musicians and producers from her team. With her unique style, her passionate, multi-layered singing and her open, direct nature, she gives the listener a deep insight into her world.

To date, Leona has been seen live on various stages and festivals (including Women of the World Festival, TEDx Hamburg, Jazzclub A-Trane, Peppermint Club LA), as well as a support act for, among others, Al Jarreau, PJ Morton, Seinabo Sey and Lisa Stansfield.

PRESS (EXCERPT)

HR- Fernsehen: (...) Anyone who listens to Leona Berlin will notice one thing above everything else: Her crystal-clear, powerful voice that is difficult to elude from. (...)

Süddeutsche Zeitung: (...) As a singer, she masters everything that is needed in the soul section: A clear voice, but also strength and foundation as well as the necessary shot of blackness and roughness. (...)

Focus: (...) Leona Berlin's timbre is clear and scratchy, her articulation has something compelling to it that you won't forget, and her artistic idealism is a clear trump card. (...)
